An Afternoon Concert of Accordion & Piano Music

Colin Dewar

2pm, Sunday

May 28th

by

Alasdair Macleod

Colin has played accordion since the age of 4, playing at village ceilidhs. He went to lessons at age 8 as he wanted to learn to read music. He started playing for a Scottish Country Dance Class at age 9 which gave him an excellent grounding for tempo. He won the Junior Scottish cup at Perth at age 13. And he recorded his first album at age 13. He auditioned for Take the Floor and has done about 38 BBC Broadcasts along with 28 albums. He is very much in demand with the band playing for Scottish Country Dancing and he teaches accordion on Skype.

The renowned Alasdair Macleod is equally adept on both the piano and the accordion. The Colin Dewar Scottish Dance Band with Alasdair on 2nd accordion played together for over 20 years. And Alasdair has his own band, the Alasdair Macleod Scottish Ceilidh Band.

For anyone who loves music, both traditional Scottish and a variety of genres, please join us with your family and friends. This is a lovely way to spend a Sunday afternoon and a great way to round off this gala weekend at:

Holy Trinity Anglican Church
1440 West 12th Avenue, Vancouver
